Rev. R. S. Laidlaw,

405 Devon Court, Winnipeg, Man.

My dear Mr. Laidlaw:

In the University of Toronto there has been for years a department of International Law which is an essential part of the courses leading to the degree of LL.B. The chair is now occupied by Professor Lefroy and another part of the subject is taught by Mr. J. E. C. Valentridge. There is however no opening in the University at present for any more extended work in this department. We have not a Faculty of Law connected with the University of Toronto as the Benchers of Ontario maintain the Osgoode Law School.

If your friend wishes further information I would advise him to correspond with Professor Lefroy and perhaps also with Dean Lee of McGill University, Montreal.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.
